

DigiSystem Work Package

For those with hearing impairment operating in a work environment

The DH-10 handset is a receiver. It is worn with a neck loop or ear/headphones (included in kit). It has volume control, level control, and is very lightweight and simple to operate.

The DM-80 is a Bluetooth microphone. Simply pair the DM-80 with your mobile phone and you will be able to hear crystal clear sound via your DH-10 receiver. The DM-80 is lightweight and so can be taken with you if you are on the move.

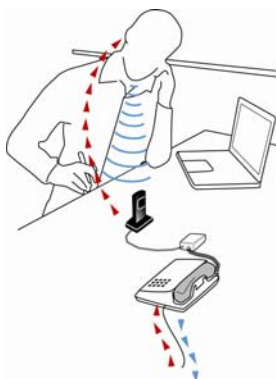

The DC-20 is an all-purpose conference microphone. It has 4 microphone modes, allowing the user ultimate control in different environments and operating ranges. It has a full equaliser so input can be adjusted depending on individual hearing loss. The DC-20 also has Bluetooth capabilities and connects to landline telephones via the Telelink.

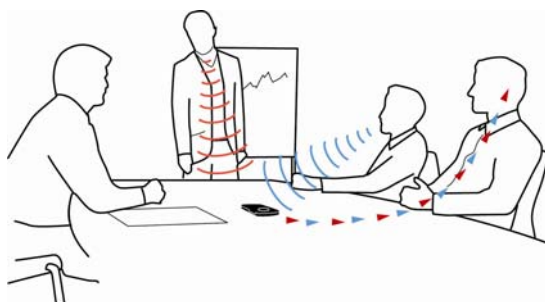

The Telelink allows the user to have telephone conversations via land-line phones. By simply placing the DC-20 into the Telelink cradle, the sound from the phone is transmitted straight to the digi receiver. When not in use, the DC-20 continues to act as a conference microphone for the user.
